A personal pledge and commitment from Dr. Martin J. Dudziak, PhD, TETRADYN founder.

This pledge is made because of the fundamental fact that the Health and Wellness of children and youth of all ages, especially of infants, and of families as a whole, is so directly and closely inter-dependent in critical ways with Safety, Security, and the Reduction of Conflict and Stress. I hereby make a personal pledge & public commitment to contribute individual & matching funds to the National Center for Family Law (based in Richmond, Virginia)

We all recognize that we need better family environments with less conflict, less stress, less embitterment, less violence, and also better resolutions, better arbitration and reconciliation, especially when and where families are divided, temporarily or permanently, for whatever reasons.

We must realize the tightly-bonded links between domestic abuse, family conflict, domestic and neighborhood violence, legal strife, and the outcome in terms of self-esteem, self-value, social outlook, intelligence, performance, and Basic Health. This applies to every aspect of health and in particular to childhood and adult immune resistance, obesity, auto-immune disorders, cardiovascular conditions, and public health risks from many increasing types of strengths of infectious diseases – influenza, food poisoning, environmental pollution, MRSA, and the expanding rare and tropical diseases now making their way into countries and societies where there has been little or no prior exposure. We cannot separate the work of the “doctors of law” and those in the social service, medical, and research communities. We cannot lose our Future.

On top of this, we have a true epidemic, especially in America, of extreme violence (abuse, kidnapping, rape, murder) increasing with respect to children and youth of all types, from infancy to their teens and up. There are more attacks on young women especially, and these are increasing significantly during our “hard economic times” and our nonstop social stress.

Thus, I make this pledge, and it is backed up by all of my colleagues and persons who know me, including at TETRADYN. I make this pledge as an individual to donate and contribute up to at least $50,000 to the National Center for Family Law (founded by Edward Barnes and many others @ Richmond, VA and connected with the University of Richmond Law School), as MATCHING contributions to others' donations, and with a minimum of $10,000 personally even if nobody else donates. This is open-ended, meaning - my pledge is not just for the next few weeks or months.

I also state unequivocally, on behalf of the company that I founded to do exactly this sort of work through advanced technology and expertise, TETRADYN, that we will actively develop an outstanding corporate plan for appropriate social responsibility programs, employee volunteerism, and contributions to the National Center for Family Law and those it serves.

Sincerely,

Martin Joseph Dudziak
